Frequently Asked Questions

Why is Lakefield Cemetery offering pet burial?

Many pet owners have wanted the ability to have their former pets buried with them after they are gone. We are now able to honour that wish.

What type of animals are considered pets?

Any domesticated animal that commonly cohabits family households for companionship or support (excluding farm animals, wild animals and any other animal defined by the municipality as a prohibited animal).

Can I have my pet cremated at Lakefield Cemetery?

No, we are not set up to cremate non-humans. Cremation services can be arranged through a veterinarian. Once you have your pet's cremated remains Lakefield Cemetery can assist with a final resting place.

If I already have a grave in the cemetery, can my pet be buried with me there?

Pets, whether buried with their human family members or alone, must be buried within the designated area of the cemetery to include pets. If your grave is in a human only section of the cemetery, your pet will not be permitted to be buried with you but can still be buried in the Pet and Family Section.

Is casket burial offered for pets?

At this time, casket burial is not offered for pets but is being explored as a future option.

What type of interment options are available in the Pet and Family Section?

Human interment can be in the form of casket burial in a grave, as well as cremated remains burial, niche entombment and scattering. Pet interment allows for the burial, niche entombment or scattering of pet cremated remains either with their owner or separately.

What memorialization options are available?

Depending on the type of interment right selected, memorialization options can be either upright monuments, flat markers, bronze plaques or inscriptions on columbarium niches.

What costs are involved?

Standard costs include the interment right, services and memorialization selected.
